

A Maine Drama

A curious and yet homely life staged right here in Maine has attracted the people of the States for the past ten years. It has stirred the heart of these people because of the interest involved.

Many a former New Englander since moved into remote corners of the nation, has had his pride and memories, rich memories, as day by day the various little drama have been staged.

Away up in the Oxford Highway, Maine, lived a poor farmer who and in the whole span of his life had never come into mention of the outside world.

They raised their family, lived day to day in the sight of God and esteem of their neighbors, friends, for years have lived in living, for one purpose and one children that are for them as of their eyes.

Norway, Maine, has contributed to this world. It has raised distinguished men and women, writers, novelists, artists, musicians, preachers, woodworkers, taxidermists, inspiring artisans and in their conspicuous knowledge to most simply, but true as steel and iron, and his wife and amongst all which Norway has given no received the spontaneous respect and honor that his friends the Oxford County and Norway has lived up to the best of New England. Not born state, not learned, hured to a in a humble environment, but honestly and well. Not that, he did two things better one else around him.

He made the best snow of world and on them a Maine to the North Pole.

He had a fiddle and he loved it better than anybody else he became the greatest fiddler. His fiddle talked to him, and he sang, it laughed and told others to dance and wait as his lilt, as Mollie's melody strong, pushed its way well to the pines. It caused tears to his pathos, and it made men a feet swirl and twinkle as he dance and dance and dance too, he was a fiddler.

Half way across the country, other simple man, born in who early in life learned to better than any one else, the

A Maine Drama

A curious and yet homely little drama played out here in Maine has held the attention of the people of the United States for the past ten days.

It is the story of the life of a man, a man who lived a poor farmer and his wife in the whole span of their existence they had never come to the attention of the outside world.

They had loved, married, sacrificed, and lived simply from day to day in the sight of God, won the respect and esteem of their neighbors and friends, for one purpose only, the grand old story that are for them as the apple of their eyes.

Norway, Maine, has contributed much to the world. It has raised some distinguished men and women, great journalists, novelists, artists, musicians, jurists, poets, woodworkers, taxidermists and many others, and in their midst it has raised a man who has been shown respect and honor that has been shown no other Maine man.

Mellie Dunham has lived up to the best traditions of New England. Not born to great estate, he learned, insured to a life of toil, in a humble environment he did his work honestly and well. Not content with the little things better than any other man in the state.

He made the best snow shoes in the world and on them a Maine man walked to the North Pole.

He was a fiddle and he learned to play better than anybody about him and he became the greatest fiddler in Maine. He talked to him, and for him, he danced, it laughed, it cried, and it moved to the dance and waltz and swing to the music of Mellie's melody, rich and deep, it pushed its way well back into the world. It made folks beam with happiness. It caused tears to fall with its melody, and it made men and maidens dance and twinkle as it bade them dance and dance and dance. And in the end, he was without peer.

He was a simple man, born in poverty, yet he was a life learned to do things better than any one else, about him. He was a genius, the greatest of his time, and he became the richest man of the world, by putting the greatest and most beautiful pleasure in the world within reach of the poorest and humblest people.

Now this man became the world's greatest employer of labor. He paid the highest wages ever paid, and he utilized science and science, and he truly sought to better about better conditions of living. He had no visions that by shortening the hours of toil, and by allowing machines to do the hard work instead of man, that he would break the back of industrial slavery, give the toilers a better chance to live, and give them more to live for than other generations had known. He did so, and then across his life, as a black cloud across the sun, came the great world war. It disoriented his plans. He saw its supreme folly and cost. He saw it, lived through it, and saw its aftermath of crime and destruction, its bootlegging and petting and neeking, its low ideals, its cold, aloof selfishness, and he noticed that people no longer neighbored and fraternized as in former days. He realized that the boys and girls of this generation with the bunny hug and Charleston were being taught the depravity that marked the dancing of Salome, but that they were missing the grace and good fellowship of those who danced in other days. He dreamed again that it might be possible to revive the old fashioned dances and wholesome comradeship that marked a past day, but one not yet entirely forgotten.

So Henry Ford "sent for his pipe" and he sent for his bowl and he sent for his fiddlers three, and thirty-six more. And he had them come from every section of this mighty land and they played before him.

In time he heard of Mellie Dunham and he sent for him to play before him even as Salome was summoned to dance before Herod.

When Mellie, the plain citizen of Maine, left home ten thousand neighbors saw him off, the bands played, while the Governor bade him God speed.

The Canadian National Railway furnished him and his wife with a private car and they were whirled into a foreign land, and the citizens of the great city of Montreal gave him a mighty welcome with a banquet, not because he could fiddle, but because Canada lies next to the North Pole and this man from Norway had built the best snow shoes in the world and on them an American, a Maine man had journeyed to the Pole. Canada knows and is interested in snow shoes and she honored the man who knew how to make them.

And in all this his good wife shared as she ever has shared whatever fate was his.

"She is a woman; one in whom the spryness of her childish years hath never lost its fresh perfume. She doth little kindnesses which most leave undone or despise. No simple duty is forgot. Life hath no dim and lowly spot. That doth not in her sunshine share." So Lowell has described a woman like Grandma Dunham, and so these twins came to be the guests of the world's richest man and Mellie Dunham played before him. The richest man in the world danced to his fiddling tunes as thousands had done before him and told Mellie Dunham that his waltz was the best he had ever heard and he will have it set to music and preserved for the world forever.

Someone asked the little old man from Maine, who had impressed him most and he said "Mr. Ford" while admiration shone in his eyes.

And so these simple home folks left and so they will come back having added glory and prestige to our state and back to us true and wonderful a welcome as they received in leaving.

Yet there are people who do not believe in fairy tales and who have never learned that truth is stranger than fiction, that it pays to do level best.

They all hope that Mr. Ford's dreams may come true and that he may live long to enjoy the fruits of a life well spent and that coming days may lose some of the tragic barren sordidness that cheat the present generation of wholesome joys, and we in Maine, hope that Mellie Dunham's music and kindly ways will help him and that he will come often himself to Maine, the most beautiful state in this union to find for himself as kindly a welcome as he gave the fiddler of Norway.

FRYEBURG FLIVER

AS AN UP-TO-DATE SHEET, WE CONFESS
"SUCCESS" MEANS THE FRYEBURG FLIVER.
"NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS,"
AT HOME OR OVER THE RIVER.

The annual exodus of our migratory brethren to tropical climes has taken place. The home nests look barren and deserted. However, far be it from us to begrudge them the pleasures of their southern sojourn. We can still enjoy the crisp pine laden air, the glittering landscape, and the cozy firesides of our well banked homes. The kiddies popping corn on winter eve; the basket of 'mud-nuts' on the centre table (prayer what 'tropic fruit can compare with a 'mud-kissed' nut-head), all tend to make our winter months enjoyable.

Our roving brethren, who like Ponced-Leon, are searching the southlands for the fountain of perpetual youth, need not pity the Fliver editor, who is lined up with his friends—the snow birds and chickadees—boosting Maine.

We are willing to wager that the Dear-bora magnate, Henry Ford, will derive fully as much pleasure from the whole-some companionship of his Oxford County guests, as 'Mellie' Dunham and his belated will gather from their triumphal tour. Mr. Ford certainly displays good taste in choosing his guests. 'Uncle Mel-lie's' skill in fashioning his inimitable snowshoes in making his famous 'mud-kissed' nut-heads, is not due wholly to 'kiss-kiss' that more to the patient mastering of a craft and to natural artistic ability. Mr. Ford will find that these Maine 'gems' are not altogether unpolished.

After six years of unparalleled progress in the world of journalism, we are proud to announce that our subscription list has grown to double. Surely a proud record. In looking over the Fliver books, we are gratified to find that we now have five paid subscribers, besides Edna Watt and Bener Ridlon, who are in arrears as usual.

Whispers From Whip-o'-Will Ave.

A fellow who once thought to quit. Doesn't feel so exceedingly pert. For his wife replies: 'You could hear a pin drop; 'Twas a rolling pine—now he feels hurt.'

Mack Watt once thought Olney St. was the only street in town, but now he pines for Pine Hill Ave.

Boner C. D. Ridlon has sold his ducks. Several promoters have a sharp eye out for Boner's profits, but Boner says, he has learned his lesson, and doesn't propose to fall for any 'flim-flam' games or 'get rich quick' schemes.

Speaking of previous gems, Mack Watt says he knows where there is a 'Pearl,' which is worth more than all the diamonds in the world, but his brother, 'Chip,' claims to have located a jewel in North Conway, which is fully as valuable.

Fliverettes

Few people, who observe our esteemed townsman, George Cameron, at the work bench or on the street, realize that 'George' has long since passed his seventy-fifth milestone. Mr. Cameron is as sprightly and mentally alert, as the average man of 'forty.' Although this good citizen is remarkably well preserved, we never heard of him being 'nickled,' but that he is full of spice, all agree.

Midnight, Friday, a number of our up-town citizens proved that they were alert and on the job, when the report quickly circulated that the bank was being robbed. However, the 'alarm' proved to be a short circuited auto horn in a nearby garage. Nevertheless, our local 'minute men,' commanded by Brackett, with Joe Solari rallying the forces in the rear, have proved conclusively that while they are on the job, we may sleep peacefully, with the knowledge that our savings are safely guarded.

'Mack' Watt, while driving on Main St. towards Fryeburg Academy, one noon recently, picked up a 'Pearl,' which he values very highly.

Whispers From Whip-o'-Will Ave.

One of the fair employees at the Fliver Bldg., created a furor amongst the gentler sex, by appearing at her table, bedecked in the latest millinery creation. 'Twas a frilly, flimsy model, reminiscent of the picture hat of bygone days.

F. D. Swan, formerly of Fryeburg, but who is now foreman of the Studley Box and Lumber Co., Rochester, N. H., here on a vacation and a little duck hunting expedition. Any duck variety, a goose to get in range of Swan, as he is 'some rooster' with a shot gun.

Bellows From Brownfield

'Win' Day reports that a bear has walked away with one of his favorite fox traps. Anybody shooting a bear, bearing a fox trap, which is back, besides, please bear in mind the bare fact, that the trap belongs to Win. Win says he has stood about all he can bear from Mr. Bear, and if he gets a bare glance, he'll bore the bear who bore his trap away.

Will Bennett was a welcome visitor at the Fliver office, one day recently. 'Will' purchased a supply of coal, of Charles Seavey to keep the home fires burning. Business is about as brisk in Brownfield, according to Will, as traffic on Fish St., on a rainy Sunday.

'Flicker' Quimby has moved his family to Fryeburg, where he has employment. 'Flicker' brought his house with him, but left his lot in Brownfield, although he has never given any concrete to the expected 'eat his lot' in Fryeburg. And you find that you have bought, which you read with breath bated. And you find that you have bought, which you read with breath bated. And you find that you have bought, which you read with breath bated.

Smith Street Smiles

The celebrated Rice Hotel Glee Club, founded by Bener Ridlon, which (although it has never given any concrete from a Radio station) can be heard for a good many ways lengths; is minus the services of its basso profundo, Chisholm R. Watt, who will do his singing in the woods of Lovell this winter. 'Chip' who is well known locally and in North Conway, will have to take his 'pitch' from age man of 'forty.' Although this good citizen is remarkably well preserved, we never heard of him being 'nickled,' but that he is full of spice, all agree.

Whispers From Whip-o'-Will Ave.

A fellow who once thought to quit. Doesn't feel so exceedingly pert. For his wife replies: 'You could hear a pin drop; 'Twas a rolling pine—now he feels hurt.'

Mack Watt once thought Olney St. was the only street in town, but now he pines for Pine Hill Ave.

Boner C. D. Ridlon has sold his ducks. Several promoters have a sharp eye out for Boner's profits, but Boner says, he has learned his lesson, and doesn't propose to fall for any 'flim-flam' games or 'get rich quick' schemes.

Speaking of previous gems, Mack Watt says he knows where there is a 'Pearl,' which is worth more than all the diamonds in the world, but his brother, 'Chip,' claims to have located a jewel in North Conway, which is fully as valuable.

Fliverettes

Few people, who observe our esteemed townsman, George Cameron, at the work bench or on the street, realize that 'George' has long since passed his seventy-fifth milestone. Mr. Cameron is as sprightly and mentally alert, as the average man of 'forty.' Although this good citizen is remarkably well preserved, we never heard of him being 'nickled,' but that he is full of spice, all agree.

Midnight, Friday, a number of our up-town citizens proved that they were alert and on the job, when the report quickly circulated that the bank was being robbed. However, the 'alarm' proved to be a short circuited auto horn in a nearby garage. Nevertheless, our local 'minute men,' commanded by Brackett, with Joe Solari rallying the forces in the rear, have proved conclusively that while they are on the job, we may sleep peacefully, with the knowledge that our savings are safely guarded.

'Mack' Watt, while driving on Main St. towards Fryeburg Academy, one noon recently, picked up a 'Pearl,' which he values very highly.

The Meanness of Men

By Frederick Marshall Davis

Men are like animals—only more so—they fight, growl, howl, kick, snarl and crowd each other in a manner that is not only repulsive, but also, in the end, they are not so much different from the brute as we think. They are not so much different from the brute as we think.

Most of the different tribes and races on the earth have some form of worship. Some worship idols, kings, cows and candles and the different views on their varied ideas are many.

I passed by a church one evening not long ago where hymns were being chanted and a preacher was preaching the word of God, trying to keep together what little good there is left in the world which I fear is getting throughbare.

I believe we should not let the sword take the place of law nor let the people have to live to dwell upon trouble or turmoil in a world of clash and conflict, where form rules, where religion is a mockery, nor allow ourselves to go on believing much and knowing little. I believe we should try hard to bring about a time when men will lift the curtain of contempt, to view and see more plainly than ever before the value of broad fields of friendship and flower bespangled winding paths of peace.

I am an American, I am at home, I believe in Americanism, my ancestors were not emigrants, I must expect to be loyal to the flag, where I live or suffer for it.

If men were real men, no man need have to carry arms in defence of his home or the land of his birth.

I believe we Americans love our peace, our true form rules, where religion is a mockery, nor allow ourselves to go on believing much and knowing little. A Tremendous Price Reduction

On January seventh, nineteen twenty-six, Dodge Brothers, Incorporated, will announce a tremendous reduction in the prices of their complete line of motor cars.

These reductions will apply on all cars bought after midnight, December fifteenth, nineteen twenty-five.

When the new prices are made known on January seventh, the full amount of the reductions will be immediately refunded to all purchasers since December fifteenth.

These revolutionary reductions are made possible by a recently completed ten million dollar extension program—new buildings and equipment that will nearly double the capacity of Dodge Bros. factories, in nineteen twenty-six.

There is no change in the policy upon which the Dodge Bros. established their leaders. Eleven years ago—the policy of constant improvement, without yearly models.

CHRISTMAS LESSON

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 2:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—"For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

PRIMARY TOPIC—Wise Men Visit
the Baby Jesus

JUNIOR TOPIC—Wise Men Follow
the Star

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—The Christmas Story

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—The Prince of Peace

Note: For this Sunday's lesson the lesson committee has given as an option of a Christmas lesson or a summary of Paul's life. It is presumed that most teachers will prefer the Christmas lesson since Paul has been the central figure for six months.

I. The Wise Men Seeking Jesus (vv.
1-2).

These wise men who sought Jesus were either Arabian or Persian astrophers, students of the stars. The appearance of an unusual star attracted their attention. Perhaps they were acquainted with the famous prophecy of Balaam (Num. 24:17). Doubtless through the influence of the Jews who remained in Chaldea or the direct influence of Daniel extending to this time, they had become acquainted with the hope of a Messiah. The light they had was dim, but they lived up to the best they had. We learn from them:

1. That All True Wisdom Leads to the Savior, for He is the Fullness of Wisdom.

2. That God's Word Shall Not Return Unto Him Void (Isa. 55:11).

The seed cast upon the Eastern waters brought forth fruit after many days. This ought to bring confidence to many ministers and Sunday school teachers who have not as yet seen the fruit of their labors.

3. The Grace of God Calls Men
From Unexpected Quarters.

Some who have the least opportunities give the greatest honor to Christ, while others, blessed with the richest opportunities, shut Him out.

II. Herod Seeking to Kill Jesus (vv.
8-9).

The news brought by the wise men struck terror to Herod's heart. He was not alone in this for all Jewry was troubled with him. A glimpse at the social enemies in and about Jerusalem in that day will enable us to understand why this news brought uneasiness to the people. They were living in the greatest luxury. Beautiful apparel, sumptuous feasts, palatial houses, etc., led to gross immorality.
We can thus readily see why Herod and all Jerusalem should be troubled.
They did not want a Savior who would save them from their sins; they wanted to continue in them. Herod demanded of the priests and scribes information as to where Christ should be born. They were soon able to tell him. These people had a technical knowledge of the Scriptures, but had no heart for the Scriptures, and had no heart for the Savior as set forth therein. Conditions much like these prevail today. This reception of the Savior shows that perverseness of heart is the cause of so many being indifferent to Christ, and of their opposition to Him when His claims are presented. It is true today that the luxuries of wealth, the pleasures of the fashion-lovers, and the gross immoralities to which these lead make Jesus Christ unwelcome in many quarters.

III. Jesus Found (vv. 9-12).

The wise men having obtained the desired information, started immediately to find Jesus. As soon as they left the city the star which had guided them from the East appeared again to lead them on; not that it had disappeared from the sky, but in doubt the city buildings shut out its light. The star guided them to the place where Jesus was. When they found Him they worshiped Him in this they displayed true faith. They did not see any miracle, only a babe, yet they worshiped Him as King. Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed (John 20:29). Now, God's over-ruling providence in all this. Many hundred years before the promised said that Christ should come from Bethlehem (Micah 5:2), and so reaffirms that Mary should be brought to that city to give birth to Christ. Let us be assured that nothing can thwart the divine purpose. God so ordered that these men should depart another way, thereby a feeding Herod's wicked purpose. Through these wise men the Lord gave gifts into the hands of Joseph and Mary before their going to Egypt. Doubtless this served a good purpose in meeting their expenses during their stay there. Truly all things work together for good to them that love God (Rom. 8:28).

Life

Life is but a day, and the hours flee.
Soon it is high noon, then afternoon,
evening, night, when all service ceases.
—R. P. Anderson.

Simplicity and Purity

"Simplicity and purity are the two wings by which a man is lifted up above all earthly things."

A Wrong Deed

A wrong deed should be immediately repented of and confessed

FARM NOTES

Is the tractor radiator drained?

Publicity never made a cow give mere milk.

Be sure that the poultry breeding house is clean and sanitary.

Cover crops are safe fertility and provide humus, so why not grow them?

UPTON

Upton Hill

Horses Taking Place of Summer Traveling—Baker's Ball Games—Christmas Spirit Growing—Doctor Travels Three Miles on Foot to See Patient.

The show man has gone and Upton Hill has resumed its normal condition. A community dance being held in the Grange Hall, Saturday night, under the auspices of John Reynolds, a jolly gathering was present, though no Mellic Dunham in town here. A pleasant time was had by those present.

The summer travel over the hill is practically over, but span after span of fine looking teams go past on their way into the woods for the winter. Twenty-three horses being the largest number counted in any one lot.

Mrs. A. W. Jenkins returned, Saturday, from her trip to Bangor, where State Grange was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Jenkins are on the receiving list for congratulations as a fine baby boy was born Friday, Dec. 11. His name is Kendrick Rex Jenkins.

Bethel boys won the basketball game played with Upton boys last week, at Bethel. Upton boys say but little, but look over so wise when the game is mentioned and whisper of a star player from Magalloway who helped Bethel.

The recent cold weather has stirred up a spirit of unrest among some in town, and plans and ways and means discussed concerning moving somewhere, anywhere, only to more comfortable or convenient place. One man in particular, going back and forth with his dress suit in hand, which would suggest run running, if he wasn't better known than that.

A. W. Jenkins was a dinner guest with his son, C. A. Jenkins and family, Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Twaddle of Bethel were overnight visitors, this week, Thursday, with Mrs. Twaddle's mother, Mrs. Brook. The doctor going on farther into the woods (3 miles on foot) to attend a patient.

Christmas spirit is growing. The teacher, Miss Matherson, already training the children for the Christmas tree exercises to be held in the church, and incidentally drawing the adults into action as both labor and finance are needed to make a success of it.

Thus Upton days pass. The inhabitants, some of them trying to cause a thrill by giving a false alarm of school-house chimney burning out, when later, after suit was dumped into the stove, 'twas found the fire was only the shining of auto lights through smoke of said chimney.

ALBANY

Hunt's Corner and Vicinity

The circle was omitted Thursday night, because of illness and bad weather. The next one will be December 28th, followed by a Christmas tree for the children. The supper will be free for all children, and any amount the others wish to give will be used toward replacing the paint for the church, which was destroyed at the time Abel Andrews' house burned, last fall. Mrs. Ives expects to be here for the Christmas tree.

Rev. Mr. Bull preached at the church, Sunday morning at 10:45. It is expected to have services at the same hour all winter, unless prevented by severe storms.

While out hunting, Friday morning, Gardner Gorman found a young collie puppy in the woods back of his house. No owner has yet been found.

Back Given Out?

Then Follow the Advice of This Norway Resident

Are you dragging along day after day with a dull, nagging backache? Do you feel tired, lame and achy; suffer sharp torturing pains at every sudden move? Then look to your kidneys! Colds, strains and overwork weaken the kidneys and bring on throbbing backache and knife-like twinges. Don't risk serious kidney disease! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Read what this Norway resident says: Mrs. Merton Rich, 21 Whitman St., says: "My back was lame and I had to put up with a dull ache across my kidneys that kept up steadily. Continual bearing down pains sapped my strength and made me tired and worn out. Sharp twinges of pain also shot across my kidneys. My kidneys were weak and acted too often. But the use of Doan's Pills from Stone's Drug Store did me of all signs of the trouble." 60c, at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

KEZAR FALLS

Friends of L. M. R. C. Met—Mrs. Alvin Stanley Dead—Mrs. Charles Mitchell and Son On Way to Baltimore.

Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, members and friends of the L. M. R. C. gathered at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Stanley, by special request. The spacious rooms were tastefully decorated, as were the tables with the colors devoted to Christmas. A beautiful supper was served at 6:30 and greatly enjoyed by all the guests. Charades and the annual Christmas tree decked with ten cent presents then fulfilled their mission. At the first of the year this Club composed of members, admirers and of President Coolidge, started in on an economical basis by each member writing out their own program for the year, thereby saving twenty-two dollars and aside from their usual expenses, were enabled to donate eleven dollars to the legionnaires of Carroll West Post, the sum of eleven dollars also to the public health fund, a similar amount which helps to prove the truth of the old adage that "a penny saved is a penny earned."

Rev. Arthur Callaghan's sermons are all well worth hearing and last Sunday morning from the text put on the whole armor of God. A beautiful duet was rendered by Mrs. Iva Cutting and her sister, Bernice Ridlon.
Maria, wife of Alvin Stanley, died Tuesday, Dec. 8, after an illness of many months. Services were held at the First Baptist Church, Dec. 11th, Rev. Coolbroth officiating. A beautiful selection was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Holman. Beside her husband and one son, Mrs. Stanley leaves many friends to mourn their loss.
Mrs. Charles Mitchell and little son left here, Thursday, the 11th, for Baltimore, where she will join her husband, who is a civil engineer. Mrs. Mitchell expected to drive as far as New York unaided, but there she expects to be joined by a friend of her husband's, who also has employment in Baltimore.

D. C. Clark's Attack

D. C. Clark's criticism of my list of the seven greatest Americans, contains some queer statements; a few of which are remarkable and others extremely simple and none of them I think will bear serious investigation, or stand historical criticism. Mr. Clark must know, he is too intelligent not to know, that one who is eminent only in one respect, while there are so many who were eminent in more than one, could not be included in a list of so few as seven, of the greatest Americans.

Julius Caesar has been called "the foremost man of all the world" as a count of his greatness as a general, as a writer, an orator, a ruler, a statesman, — eminent in several respects. I stated the rule in my list of the seven greatest Americans. Mr. Clark ignored it. His purpose was obvious. He sought a wordy and unprofitable controversy, which to me in the present condition of my eyesight, and the amount of writing I have to do is simply an annoyance.

His statements about the Great Exponent of the Constitution of the United States, Daniel Webster, are extremely ludicrous, and I would be laughed at to take them seriously. I was not in error in my statements about him or any one of the seven, as Mr. Clark said, but every one can be substantiated by the best historical authorities.

In the History of Oxford County, which I am writing, one chapter is devoted to Daniel Webster at Fryeburg, and what he was and did. I shall not revise what I have written about him, on account of Mr. Clark's statements. But for the fact that Daniel Webster will have such a prominent place in the work, and must be of peculiar interest to the good people of Fryeburg and vicinity, I would not have taken any notice at this time, of Mr. Clark's statements.

At my leisure I purpose to treat further of Richard Henry Lee, and the inside history of the Declaration of Independence, and of Henry Clay, a popular idol of his time, which by the way, Daniel Webster never was. Clay was the author of the Protective System, which Mulhall, the English statistician said wrought a degree of prosperity and wealth in the United States, unexampled in the history of the world. Also a series of sketches on the seven greatest American generals, the seven greatest American naval officers, the seven greatest American heroes in American history, etc. Reasonable criticism will not be taken amiss, but statements simply made to provoke unprofitable controversy, will excite a resentment something like that of Tom Marshall of Kentucky, a stump speaker of note of his time when he was addressing on one occasion a large open air meeting, he was annoyed by a man in the outer circle of the crowd shouting: "Louder, Tom, louder." "With their cut no notice of the interruption, till he had completed the point he was making then he said: "When the momentous time arrives, that the quick and the dead are summoned to judgment before the judgement seat of God, perhaps that solemn and awful occasion, may be interrupted by some confounded fool on the outskirts of the assembled multitude yelling: 'Louder, Lord, Louder.'"
